

ABOUT QUOTIDIAN-V FOODS

Quotidian-V Foods (Q-VF) is an agricultural business specializing in beekeeping and the processing and sale of bee-products. Situated in Abeokuta, the capital city of Ogun State, Nigeria, we operate under the brand name "BURZ". Quotidian-V Foods was founded by Taiwo Olawumi Kent-Adebayo (née Iyiola), a graduate of Forestry and Wood Technology from Akure, Ondo State, Nigeria.

We take pride in our commitment to producing 100% pure natural bee products, including:

- Pure natural honey
- Beewax
- Propolis
- Royal jelly
- Bee venom
- Bee Pollen

The company began operations in December 2018 with one beehive and five liters of honey. It was officially registered in March 2020, at which point we added fifty more beehives. Therefore, we consider March 2020 our official launch date.

In 2019, Q-VF won its first grant as the emerging winner of the first edition of Farmers for the Future Award by The British American Tobacco Nigeria Foundation (BATNF), worth five million naira (in cash and technical support). This grant was used to establish our own farm with 50 beehives and to acquire modern equipment for processing bee products. Since then, Q-VF has received additional grants worth over two million naira from the Federal Government and other private organizations.

So far, Quotidian-V Foods has:

- 60 beehives located in three location in southwest.
- Over 1,000 paying customers for our bee products, with nationwide delivery system in place.
- Trained over 100 individuals in bee-keeping
- Obtained National Agency for Food, Drugs and Administration (NAFDAC) certification for our honey product (Burz Honey).
- Supported five farmers with five beehives each.

Leveraging technology, including GIS, Artificial Intelligence (AI), and the Internet of Things (IoT), Q-VF is evolving into a standard commercial bee farm. We are involved in rearing bees, apitherapy (a modern method of treating medical conditions such as infertility, asthma, and rheumatism), and the commercial packaging and marketing of bee products and by-products (such as beeswax candles and cosmetics) across various states in Nigeria and the global market.

Quotidian-V Foods Company is established to provide its quota to environmental conservation, and climatic actions aligning to Sustainable Development Goals 3 and 13 respectively. Furthermore, the production of honey and other bee products (as listed above) addresses the high demand for unadulterated bee products.

At Quotidian-V Foods Company, our customers' best interests will always come first. Our activities are guided by our values and professional ethics which we uphold at a high standard. We will also cultivate a suitable working environment for our clients and employees.

Vision Statement

"Quotidian-V Foods strive to contribute to a world where bees thrive, ecosystems flourish, and people experience the profound health benefits of the highest quality bee products (honey, beeswax, and other bee-derived products), while preserving the delicate balance of nature".

Mission Statement

"By 2030, Quotidian-V Foods will be a global leader in bee products and sustainable agriculture, known for ethical practices and premium offerings. We aim to inspire a healthier, eco-conscious world with our innovative bee-product value chain and advocate for biodiversity".
